COOKING STOVE

OR PORTABLE KITCHENS.

MANUFACTURED and sold by HENRY MILLER & Co in 2d street, two doors from the corner of Wood streets, Pittsburgh.

This Stove with fixtures complete, comprises every necessary article of apparatus for an extensive cooking establishment.

The different sizes are calculated to do the cooking for small or large families, public houses and Steam-boats, and are so extremely simple in their construction as to be managed with ease by a child, twelve or fourteen years of age.

With this Stove may be cooked, by baking, roasting, boiling and by steam, a sufficiency of meats, fish, fowls and vegetables, to make a dinner for from 5 to 100 persons, while at the same time may be baked from 1 to 8 loaves of bread.

A wooden vessel containing from twenty to fifty gallons of water, can also be kept boiling, for the purposes of washing, &c. All these are done simultaneously and with one small fire.

The circumstance of these Stoves having got into very general use at the eastward, within 2 or 3 years past, particularly in the cities of New-York and Baltimore, with the rapid sale and general approbation they have met with since their first introduction last winter, west of the mountains, are sufficient testimonials of their utility and advantage.

It is divided into three separate tracts, on each of which there are handsome improvements; the land is of the best quality, well timbered, and not subject to overflow. It is universally esteemed, both as to soil and situation, the finest property in the western country. Pittsburgh Gazette

TUESDAY MORNING, FEB. 7, 1820.

We are happy to find that in most of of our large cities liberal contributions have been collected for the relief of the distressed inhabitants of Savannah. The dreadful conflagration which has swept away a large portion of that city, and exposed a helpless multitude to want and misery, has called forth a general burst of sympathy, which affords a happy proof, that however we may be divided by climate, or distracted by local parties, we are indeed one people. the same in feeling, and in sentiment • mourning over the miseries, and relieving the misfortunes of each other. Seldom indeed have we been called to the contemplation of a scene so dreadful as the one before us —the fortunes and the homes, the hopes and happiness, of hundreds, have in a moment been consigned to one common grave! But the liberality displayed by some, and the sympathy evinced by all, will afford a soothing consolation to the afflicted minds, and a substantial relief to the imperious wants, of the sufferers.

The extent of the destruction, is in a great measure owing to the pernicious practice which prevails in our southern states of erecting frame buildings in populous towns. They have suffered severely for this carelessness in the present as in former memorable instances, and we hope that this awful warning will have the effect of inducing them to erect their buildings in future upon safer and more substantial principles.

Communicated.

Messrs. Editors.

I am induced through a sense of duty to make a few observations & throwing out some ideas, hoping that a more able hand will follow it up, and endeavor to have it put in operation.

I was looking over the Harrisburg Chronicle of the 24th ult. and was much pleased to find my ideas on the subject of a Poor House, adopted by a wise and a prudent part of the state. I have spent many vacant moments thinking and planning the same thing, calculating the advantage and benefits of it, and at once looking over the Dauphin county Poor House abstract, I plainly saw the plan practically demonstrated The total amount for the maintenance of sixty nine paupers of their's cost less than thirty six to forty paupers of the city of Pittsburgh by several hundred dollars In one item; opening the ground for burying, costs this city not much short of three hundred dollars per annum. By the present mode of supporting the poor, there is no income nor advantage derived from them whatever; they are kept in total idleness which is not only a very great loss of time, but it corrupts the morals and leads to vice and immorality. The plan which I would strongly recommend is this—to have a farm a few miles from the city, (if possible with a water power) to take all the poor there, and have buildings sufficiently extensive to carry on every possible branch of manufactory and agricultural business, and to receive every person who will go there and work for their victualing and clothing, and receive any person able or unable to work, and whenever they can suit themselves better to be at liberty to go by giving a short notice to the managers; the persons unable to work the county is bound to support—those able to work would be a profit to the establishment, because few persons but their labour are worth more than their victualling and clothing. I would also recommend in lieu of calling the establishment a Poor House, to call it "The Allegheny County House of Industry and Economy." The reasons are obvious why I recommend that title, although it would be better to call it any thing than not have it. Many families who are able and willing to work might be accommodated and be a gain to the establishment where they would have a comfortable home.—The poor tax of the county of Allegheny is upwards of 5000 dolls. and every year expended, and as much more given to the poor by the citizens of the city and county; this is a dead loss. But if an establishment of the above kind was in full operation, after a few years the poor tax might be dispensed with, and not required because the establishment would be capable of maintaining all the poor by their profits and economy; this certainly would be a happy thing and when a person lies his head down to sleep and thinks that all his fellow beings are well provided for, it certainly would be a pleasing thought, especially at the present distressing time. Should something of the above be put in operation by all the counties what a vast saving it would be to this state; the times calls with a loud and vociferous voice for retrenchment and economy. I have not laid down any plan to get the above into operation, but will leave it for another communication from myself or some more able person.

ECONOMY.

Congressional.

January 22.

In the house of Representatives to-day when the Speaker came to Ohio to p , he said that he received a lett from a man in Ohio, and that when he first opened the letter he thought it was a quiz but after reading it, he considered it his duty to bring it to the view of the house. It proved to be from a man in Ohio, who had invented a peculiar kind of traps to catch rats and mice The letter was read and laid on the table. Being in the front of the gallery, I distinctly heard one of the members request another to move to have the letter referred to the committee on the District of Columbia, as there are a great number of rats in this place.

After the adoption of several resolutions, the house resolved itself into a committee of the whole, Mr. Baldwin in the chair, on the Missouri bill. Mr. Storrs offered an amendment to the bill, which he said was intended to effect a compromise. This amendment was opposed by Mr. Clay, Mr. Lowndes, Mr. Scott and Mr. Randolph. Mr. Clay, said he hoped the gentleman from New-York would withdraw his amendment, that they might meet the main question of restriction boldly and fairly. Mr. Randolph said he did not like this bush fighting. He was opposed to the amendment. He said that the tables of the members had been covered with pamphlets and papers against restriction, & he was determined that the people should see the other side of the question: "God," he said, "had given us that country, & the Devil himself should not take it from us."

A friend has politely furnished us with the first number of the Arkansas Gazette, printed at the village of Arkansas, from which we extract the following description:—Balt. Gaz.

ARKANSAS.

As you have attempted the establishment of a press at the post of Arkansas-a place hitherto almost unknown throughout the U. States, I shall endeavor, thro' the medium of your paper, to give the public a short sketch of our village and its vicinity.

The Village of Arkansas stands on the north side of the Arkansas river, in N. latitude 33 deg. 58 18, about 55 or 60 miles by water above the confluence of said river with the Mississippi, near 40 miles from the Mississippi by way of the cut-off and White river, and about 25 miles by land to the mouth of the latter river, which is passable at low water.

The village of Arkansas is a French establishment, settled as early as the American revolution. Two places on the river below, were attempted for the establishment of Spanish garrisons, but were drowned out by the high water—The present village is entirely free from inundation, it is situated on a high tract of country that puts into the Arkansas river, say fronting the river for about two miles, and running back to the prairie, a distance of three miles. The prairie runs back, high land, 90 miles, dividing the waters of the Arkansas & White rivers. The site of the villages extremely level, no undulations whatever.—The soil in the village and its vicinity is a clay mixed with a fine sand, which causes it to wash with the heavy rains into gullies, that injure the village very much. There are at present but few buildings and those principally in the French style; or rather since the change of government from Spain to the United States, many houses have been suffered to go to decay, and but few new buildings erected lately. The post of Arkansas is at present the seat of territorial government for the Arkansas territory; but the local legislature have the power to remove it to any other place in the territory they may think proper.

The present village of Arkansas will always be a place of mercantile importance, it being the first high ground above the mouth of the river; the land at the mouth of the river being subject to annual inundation will not admit of permanent mercantile establishments, and will of necessity make this a place of deposit. The Arkansas river has sufficient depth of water to admit steam boats to pass many miles above this. There is at present much mercantile business done at this place, considering the small population of the country.

Our judicial system is at present borrowed from that of Missouri, a superior and circuit courts.

There are a sufficient number of lawyers in the territory—more than make fortunes from their practice.

There are probably a sufficient number of physicians for the present population—when that increases, particular districts may require additional physicians.

Farmers, men who cultivate the soil, are the men whom we need; to them are the greatest inducements held out of acquiring property. The soil is good, the climate mild; the river never freezes up to prevent boats from passing—the citizen of Arkansas can always go to market when it suits his convenience, and may always be first in the market where his produce will demand the highest prices.

THE LATE GALE.

In noticing the severe gale of the 17th instant, the Albany Argus observes—"The devastation by the tempest has not been confined to the sea coast. The damage sustained in the interior, in the demolition of buildings, the destruction of fruit and forest trees, the loss of cattle, and the prostration of fences, has been incalculably great.—On the route from Bennington to Manchester, in Vermont, we are informed by a traveller, there is scarcely a farm on which some building has not been blown down, unroofed or partially damaged. In one case, in Shaftsbury, the family having fled to the cellar for safety, the house blew down, and the chimney fell through into the cellar, breaking all the sleepers except one or two over that part to which the family had retreated. They were afterwards dug out by the neighbours, wholly unhurt. In Rupert, many of the fine maple orchards which have excited the admiration of travellers, were prostrated; and the damage in that town alone is estimated at 50,000 dollars.—In Pittstown, Hoosick, New-Lebanon, &c. many buildings were blown down or unroofed; and the roads in all directions have been obstructed by drifts of snow.'

From an English Paper.

The United States.—"Untaxed either by the government or pauperism, the mass of the people, intelligent and enterprizing, easily acquire competence. The frequent recurrence of their elective franchise, in calling their attention to the regeneration of their participation in the sovereign authority. The freedom with which they question the conduct of their statesmen, the uncere monious manner in which they unimadvert upon the measures of their Congress, and their unadorned and uncourtly salutation of the Chief Magistrate, all conspire to assure them of the equality of their political condition, and inspire them with confidence in the integrity of their Representatives."

A Spanish physician named Don Serapnina Sola, having obtained permission from his government to try experiments in inoculating for the plague on some Spanish deserters, he selected fourteen, who were all inoculated with virus taken from the plague sore of those persons on whom the disorder had assumed the utmost degree of malignity. It produced slight sickness, and eruptions. Time must determine as to its permanent effect on the system.

Manchester, Nov. 29

Expected arrival of Mr. Cobbett

Though the morning was very rainy, the expectation of Mr. Cobbett's arrival in this town, attracted great numbers of persons from different parts of the country. The local authorities were on the alert and military arrangements were made, which were as formidable as those of the 16th of Aug. Several pieces of cannon were brought into town last night, but the Yeomanry cavalry had received no orders, nor did they make their appearance to-day Hussars were stationed on different parts of the Liverpool road, in order to give immediate information of Mr. C's movement.

As Mr. Cobbett did not make his appearance at the expected time, the people gradually returned to their homes. At about 5 o'clock a party of his friends, to the amount of one hundred and twenty, sat down to an excellent dinner at the Union Rooms, after which Mr. Scott the chairman, explained the cause of Mr. Cobbett's absence, which may be learned from the following letter from the boroughreeves and constables of Manchester and Salford to Mr. Cobbett at Irlam.

Manchester, Nov. 22, 1820.

SIR—Having reason to believe that your introduction into the town of Manchester, on Monday, the 29th inst. is intended to be public, and to be accompanied by an unusual procession and multitude of people, as well strangers as inhabitants, we, the undersigned, being boroughreeves and constables of the town of Manchester and Salford, beg to inform you, that we consider such an assemblage of the great mass of the population of this district, in the present situation of the country as necessarily attended with considerable danger to the public peace; we do therefore caution you against making any public entry into the town of Manchester; and if you persist in so doing, or if you adopt any other proceeding, whereby the public peace may be broken or endangered, we shall feel it our indispensable duty immediately to interfere.

We are sir, your obedient servants. (signed by the boroughreeves and constables of Manchester and Salford.

Cobbett immediately after writing his reply, left Irlam, for London, in a post chaise, accompanied by his two sons.

From a late London paper.

CHATHAM'S OPINION OF THE SPANISH NATION.

The following extracts from Lord Chatham's speech in the British House of Lords, in the year 1770, will show the opinion entertained by that eminent statesman of the Spanish nation, fifty years ago. Since that period, Spain has rapidly depreciated. If she merited these anathemas fifty years ago, what does she not now deserve? The speech was occasioned by a motion of the Duke of Richmond for information relative to the seizure of Falkland islands by Spain.

EXTRACTS.

"My Lords, I am well acquainted with the character of the Spanish nation; a least as far as it is represented by their court and ministry, and should think this country dishonored by a comparison of the English good faith with the punctilios of a Spaniard. The Spaniards are as mean and crafty, as they are proud and insolent. With their ministers I have often been obliged to negotiate and never met with an instance of candor or dignity in their proceedings: nothing but low cunning, trick, and artifice. After a long experience of their want of candor and good faith, I found myself compelled to talk to them in a peremptory, decisive language.

"The pretended disavowal by the court of Spain, is as ridiculous as it is false. The King of Spain disowns the thief, while he leaves him unpunished, and profits by the theft. In vulgar English, he is the receiver of stolen goods, and ought to be treated accordingly."

THE INCOME TAX, OF ENGLAND

Of the income tax, when it existed in England, the sum paid by the proprietors and occupiers of land, was 6,438,475*l* —and by merchants, manufacturers, professional men, office holders, &c. &c only 3,021,187.

The number of payers in the first class was three times as great as that in all other classes. A writer concludes that three fourths, of the vast revenue of Great Britain is derived, indirectly from the owners and cultivators of the soil.

GREENLAND.

A letter from the Rev. J. G. Grillich dated at New Herrnhut, June 11, 1819 says—'Our Congregation consists of 570 members. Last winter we had a mournful occurrence Between March the 21st and Easter thirty-four persons departed this life in consequence of eating the rotten brain of a Walruss (Norval) which they had found; hunger drove them to devour it in a raw state; their bodies swelled, and notwithstanding all the care, and the use of various means for their recovery, they died one after the other, in a deplorable situation. Though the weather was most extremely cold, they would be carried to end their lives among us The Lord made this distress a mass of good, and to his praise we can declare, that most of them departed in peace, and evidently fell asleep in Jesus.'

For the Pittsburgh Gazette.

To Mr. ——

There is in my bosom a fostering sorrow,
That chills every scion of hope in its bloom;
But 'ere I from mankind one sympathy borrow,
Death shroud me eternally up in the tomb.

But yet not in vain has my bosom confided,
In one, with whose friendship no falsehood entwine,
And one I have found in whose heart undivided,
Some feelings awaken responsive to mine.

Ye souls with the tenderest sympathy's fashioned
Where softness and firmness have blended their seed,
For the crimes and the softness of others impassioned,
Ah! ye are the victims that live but to bleed.

What anguish is theirs, who by nature exalted,
Are stamped with the nobler endowments of mind!
By cold hearted malice and envy assaulted,
While scorpion stinged calumny stabs them behind.

But be it my lot, from all mankind estranged,
To live and to die, still unknowing, unknown,
They seek bliss in vain, who the nations have ranged,
Destroying that peace which might else be their own.

In my heart rude adversity rank weeds have stifled,
Each flowret of joy, and defaces its young form,
The gust of affliction life's summer have rifled,
And no bloom survives from the wreck of the storm.

But though almost driven by misfortune to madness,
Yet patient I'll bear, and no longer repine,
Since often the mild beaming eve star of gladness,
Hath glanced on a bosom as doleful as mine.

The seaman long toss'd on the storm's ruffled billow,
When moored in the Haven how happy and blest,
So I when my wanderings are past, on my pillow
Shall feel more delight in the sweetness of rest.

By day when the sun beam's shall gild the grey mountain,
Thy name shall be given to my own native wind,
By night when the moon shall have silvered the fountain,
Thy lovely remembrance in dreams I will find.

O friend of my heart my rapt fancy enfolds thee,
When darkness and gloom in her visions are driven,
Despairing; forsaken; with joy she beholds thee,
The last beam of bliss she can borrow from heaven.

PITTSBURGH.

Tuesday, Feb. 8, 1820.

In our last, we presented to our readers, a hasty sketch of a speech of our representative Mr. Wilkins, on the subject of kidnapping; and we published it with no small degree of pride. Of Mr. Wilkins' powers as a public speaker, no one who has heard him at the Bar could have any doubt, but until we saw him on the floor of the house of representatives, we had no pledge that his activity would be commensurate with his abilities. We are happy to find, however, that he is frequently on the flour, and that although he has kept a watchful eye over the interests of his own district, he has not confined himself to local questions, but has taken a conspicuous part in every debate in which any of the great interests of the state were concerned. We are truly proud, in seeing him thus presenting himself to the public, as the representative of a state, rather than of a county; and while we pay this tribute to the liberal and public spirited course which he has pursued, we have no wish to derogate from the merits of other gentlemen. Mr. Gilmore, Mr. Coulter, Mr. Brackenridge, Mr. Duane, & other members with whose names we are not so well acquainted, have contributed largely towards giving to the present session, a more energetic character than many of those which have preceded it. It is to be regretted that the exertions of those gentlemen who are desirous to mature something for the public good, are cramped by the tedious and delusory investigation into the conduct of the governor, which must occupy a great deal of time, & produce much irritation without producing any important result. We hope, however, that this will soon be finished, and that both houses will then unite in giving an undivided and assiduous attention to the important business before them. The times are hard—the people are groaning under many visitations of Providence, and their representatives should do every thing in their power to ameliorate their condition. The act abolishing imprisonment for debt; that relative to mortgages, and some others which have been passed, are valuable acquisitions to our judicial code, and we feel justified in viewing them as pledges that the councils of the present session will not be distracted by party feeling, or local jealousy.

French law of libel. The Edinburgh reviewers in their strictures upon the report of a committee appointed by the Chambers of France to examine a law proposed to define the liberty of the press, and to repress its licentiousness, observe:

"Nothing can be more delightful to every lover of rational liberty, than the spectacle which our neighbors in France are now exhibiting—of a great nation reclaimed from the wicked and miserable pursuits of war, and applying themselves to establish upon solid grounds, the true glory and happiness of any nation—a free Constitution. Many years have not elapsed since the name of French liberty was odious or despicable in England;* and now, happily, our ancient enemies are become our rivals in the pursuit of real freedom. They are affording a splendid exception to the observation so often made, that a restoration is the worst kind of revolution: For they are not only wisely and vigorously consolidating and extending the improvements which they have so dearly purchased by the sufferings of thirty years; but are taking the only security for the permanence of the comparative independence at present enjoyed by the body of the people, by enacting such good laws as may stand them in stead, if less auspicious times should come. A good subject of this country ought to regard these happy changes with unmingled satisfaction—as highly propitious both to our liberties and our commercial prosperity. Every step made by France in political improvement, is a point gained to her neighbours; nay, her cultivation of the arts of peace—and of eloquence the first among them—is at once an indication that the season of tranquility is arrived, and a pledge of its continuance.

* "It will hardly be credited in after times that there was a period in the 19th century when a scholar, and a man of mild demeanour (though not certainly of very powerful understanding,) could begin a note upon France, in a book of antiquarian criticism, by calling it a country which every friend to the welfare of mankind, and the peace and true interest and happiness of England, must wish blotted from the map of the world.—(Shakespeare Manuscripts, p. 40.) Mr. Malone follows this up with a long invective against that nation; and a confident prophecy, that any peaceable intercourse with her must ruin England"

The authors of the report have divided the offences of publication into two classes; the first consists of publications which instigate to the commission of some crime which is cognizable by the laws—the second comprises those which injure the morals of the community, or the characters of individuals. The first, which is called 'provocation,' is left by the proposed law without any addition of qualifying terms, or any distinction of direct or indirect; and the Jury are to determine whether any given sentiments when published, amount to an instigation. The other class is divided into 'outrages' or attacks upon morals and religion; 'offences' or attacks upon the characters of persons or bodies, who from their rank are supposed to be beyond the reach of the attack, and therefore incapable of being injured; 'injuries' or insults, which irritate without hurting the character—and 'diffamations,' slander or defamation.

These definitions are rather discordant with our notions of libel; we present them however, to our legal friends as matters for speculation.

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 3, 1820.

AT a public meeting of the citizens of this city and vicinity, held agreeably to public notice, in the Court House this day, for the purpose of forming an Association for the promotion of Domestic Economy, Agriculture and Manufactures, CHARLES SHALER, Esq. in the Chair, and ALEXANDER M'CLURG, Secretary.

The committee appointed at a former meeting, for the purpose of draughting articles of association, made report and submitted a draught which having been read was unanimously adopted. And on motion, it was

Resolved, That a committee be appointed to procure suitable books and subscription papers, and insert therein the articles of association now adopted, to which they will endeavour to procure as many signatures, as they conveniently can, and that said committe be authorised to give public notice, and hold an election for such officers as are therein mentioned as soon as they may think proper, which officers shall perform the duties enjoined on them untill their places shall be supplied by those who may be elected at the annual election in October next. The following gentlemen were then appointed Members of the foregoing committee, for the City of Pittsburgh: Walter Forward, John Arthurs, William Porter, Lewis Peterson, Ross Wilkins, Andrew Scott, William Eichbaum, Junior, WilliamBlair, Alexander M'Clurg, Thomas Bakewell.

For Pitt township—George Wallace, Jacob Negley, Francis Wilson.—For St. Clair township—Nathaniel Plummer,—Moses Middlesworth, E. Ensell, Junior.—For Ohio township—John Way, William Courtney.—For Mifflin township—Francis M'Clure, John Snodgrass.—For Elizabeth township—John Wilson, John Robinson.—For Fayette township—G. Williams, James M'Creary.—For Plumb township—John M'Masters Archibald Coon.—Ross township—Hugh Davis, Wm. Sample.—Versailles township—Wm. Shaw, Thomas Neal.—Pine township—Wm. Cochran, Thos. Gibson.—For Moon township—Benjamin Miller, James M'Cormic.—For Indiana township—Leonard Holstead.—For Deer township.—Felix Negley, Robert Porter.—For Robinson township—John M'Kee, Samuel Marks.

The following preamble and resolution were then offered by H. Denny, Esq:

Whereas, a few of the Agriculturalists, residing in the state of Virginia, have presented petitions to Congress inimical to the interest of the manufacturing class, Therefore,

Resolved, That a committee be appointed to draw up a memorial, that such aid and protection may be extended to the manufacturers of the United States, as in their judgement they may deem expedient. That said memorial be presented to the before mentioned committee in order to procure the signatures of the practical farmers of this county, and forward the same to our Representative in Congress, which was adopted, and Messrs. Denny, Biddle, and Forward were appointed said committee; it was then

Resolved, That the proceedings of this meeting be signed, and published in the City papers.

CHARLES SHALER, Chairman.
ALEXR. M'CLURG, Secretary.

The members of the first committee appointed are requested to meet at the house of J. B. Oliver, at 7 o'clock, P. M. on Wednesday the 9th inst.

"Harrisburgh, Jan. 26.

"The committee enquiring into the governor's conduct, sits in a committee room during the sitting of the house, so that in a few days this business will be brought to a conclusion, so far at least as respects the enquiry; the committee will then enquire, what report to make, and the house will then enquire whether the report be correct or not.

"A bill is about to be reported, appropriating 300,000 dollars for certain internal improvements; 12,000 for the Delaware, 15,000 for the Allegheny and Ohio, a subscription of 50,000 dollars to the Union canal, and a guarrantee of six per cent interest upon the stock of the said canal company for twenty years; the various other appropriations are for the most useful objects. I anxiously trust that these measures will be adopted.

"The committee appointed by the senate, and the committee appointed by the lower house, to enquire into the cause of public distress, have not yet reported."

Aurora.

A meeting of the citizens of Philadelphia was held on Tuesday, for the purpose of devising means for the relief of the Savannah sufferers. Chief Justice Tilghman was called to the chair, and James N. Baker, Mayor of the city, was appointed secretary. District and Ward committees were appointed to solicit subscriptions—a Treasurer was appointed to receive the money contributed—two places of deposit were designated for donations in clothing, groceries, vegetable, grain, lumber, bricks, &c.—and a Corresponding Committee, of eight persons, were appointed to transmit to Savannah the money & articles that may be contributed.—New York Spec.

LANCASTER COUNTY.

The democratic delegates of Lancaster county met, on Thursday, and chose six persons to represent that county in the state convention, with instructions to support the nomination of William Findlay as Governor, and James Monroe as President.—American Centinel.

By the Nashville Clarion, of the 11th instant we learn, that general Long, who, it will be recollected, was reported to be dead, 'is alive and doing well'—that 'Texas is comparatively a wilderness; & that, except in Spanish camps, there is not a royalist to be found, all having left the country for the interior when Bernardo invaded it.'

Jacob Stout, speaker of the Senate, has been elected governor of the state of Delaware, vice Henry Molleston, deceased. Ame. Cent.

ECONOMY—RETRENCHMENT!!

Pretty Work for Eight Dollars a Day.

Latterly the National Hall at Washington has resounded with the pitiful cant of affectation—the army must be reduced—the vast expenditures for the gradual encouragement and encrease of the Navy, done away! The promptitude with which Congress assembled, and the seeming zeal demonstrated by them in entering on public business, inspired us with a well founded confidence, they would not abuse the trust reposed in them by their constituents; that their proceedings would be characterized with firmness and energy, having exclusively in view the promotion of the honor and glory of our common country. We have kept on them a steady and eager gaze solicitous to blazon to the world deeds that would redound to the interest of the nation. We have been disappointed.—The old mania of speech-making appears to be contagious in that body, hereditary descending from sire to son—and to such a degree does it now prevail in the Councils of the Nation, that not content with SPEECHIFYING themselves, they abandon the Hall of Congress, and eagerly go in pursuit of the tinselled wings of the butterfly. What will the world say when 'tis know the House of Representatives adjourned on Friday last for want of a quorum—the great majority of its members being in attendance on the Senate to hear Mr. Pinkney's sentiments on the Missouri question? Being a dead loss to the United States of 1500 dollars, simply for the gratification of its representatives in listening to the Demosthenes of Maryland. This is trifling with the solemnity of legislation, and totally unworthy the dignity of an American Congress. After this, it is devoutly to be hoped we shall hear no more of the 'poverty of the National Treasury.'

Religious Extract.

It is a most beautiful trait in the religion of the Bible, that it is founded upon truth, is supported by simplicity, is independent of human grandeur, and is altogether at variance with the dictates of human pride. In the history of the patriarchs, we are presented with a picture of pure and undefiled religion, in its effects upon a people who as yet knew little of the refinements of society, at once striking impressive, and deeply interesting. Whether we consider Abraham as calling with a confidence on the Most High in a strange land, or Isaac as walking abroad to meditate at eventide, or Jacob, when in the language of the apostle, he worshipped leaning upon the top of his staff, we are equally impressed with the beauty of that religion which is thus seen to flourish, not among the most polished but the most simple, not the most powerful but the most obedient, not the most learned, but the most faithful of all mankind. Thus are we taught to believe, that however pomp and splendor may seem to add to the effects of religion, or however imposing may be the coloring which they throw around it, yet as it is, its object to unite man to his creator, it cannot be assisted by human power, it needs not the aid of adventitious circumstances. It is not midst the crowd of assembled multitudes, nor in "temples made with hands," that its effects are only to be felt. He who pauses amid the labors of the day, or contemplates the beauties of nature at an early dawn, or goeth into the fields to meditate at eventide, or with Jacob, worships leaning upon the top of his staff—many doubtless feel with its full force, the influence of the spirit of devotion. It was thus, that the holy men of old were taught to trust in that being whose attributes are displayed in all its works; it is thus, that pious men in every age, have learned to bow in deep humility, and with solemn reverence before him, "who hath created the Heavens, and the work of whose fingers the star are;" and it is thus, that in our own minds may be inculcated lessons of piety and of unmurmuring obedience, that we may be taught to look upon the evils of this life as necessary preparatives to eternity, and every event as subservient to the holy purpose of a being whose mercy endureth for ever. We may thus in youth be preserved amid temptations, and in old age be enabled to look with peace on our past lives; and with pious and grateful devotion, worship like the patriarchs, "leaning upon the top of his staff."

A CURIOSITY.

It is stated in an English paper of Nov. 12th, that Mr. Creswick, of New street, Birmingham, has a singular article of cutlery in his possession, viz; a knife which contains four hundred blades, and which, before it was put together, consisted of five thousand parts.

FOR THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE.

Sweetly purling, gently gliding,
Thro' the vale and down the hill,
'Neath the shade it's beauty hiding,
Flows the softly murm'ring rill.
Thus my Fanny, unaspiring,
Sweetly whisp'ring love and praise;
From its rocks and hills retiring,
Glides thro' life's tortuous ways.

But the sun thro' bush and briar,
Sometimes darts his amorous beam,
And a stream of liquid fire,
O'er the rill will brightly gleam;
Thus when love tho' long rejected,
Found to Fanny's heart the way,
Back from Fanny's eye reflected,
Brighter beams of rapture play. O.

TOWN OF AMERICA.

THE undersigned, owner of a large number of squares, half squares, and lots in the above town, and of about five hundred acres of land adjoining to it, proposes to sell to actual settlers, any number of lots, not exceeding one hundred; and several out lots of twenty acres each, on terms highly calculated to promote the interest of the purchasers. He is also authorized to sell on liberal terms and in small tracts, seven thousand acres of excellent land, lying about the Town and in its immediate neighborhood.

This town is situated in the fork of the Ohio and Mississippi, on the bank of the former, and on the first piece of high ground above their junction.

No person of any reflection has ever looked upon a map of North America without being struck with the mighty confluence of water which is exhibited at the junction of the Ohio and Mississippi: and the natural sentiment that a great city must grow up at that point has only been checked by the apprehension that the place was annually inundated. The apprehension was incorrect. The town scite and the back country are free from inundation, and both are now settled and are constantly increasing in population. The town has been selected for the seat of Justice for the county of Alexander in which it is situated, and both the county and circuit courts are, and will be held there. The neighboring country is well settled, not by a detached population, but by connected settlements spreading into the interior of the state of Illinois.

The mind is therefore free to expatiate upon the advantages of this situation, and the undersigned can leave it to any man of sense and candor to say whether any point upon our continent has ever presented a fairer prospect of a greater inland commercial city?

Situated on the first high ground above the confluence of the noblest streams in America—at a point from which large steam boats can at all times descend to New Orleans—with a rich back country to support it--and a numerous population now covering the adjacent country, and it is difficult to assign a reason why this town should not in a few years rank with the first in America.

Besides its water communications it may reasonably count upon the advantage of seeing pass through it the great road which will be required to facilitate the intercourse between the Upper and the Lower Mississippi. Authentic information authorizes the assertion that the country south of the Ohio is entirely practicable for a road, which can be opened across the west ends of Kentucky and Tennessee through the late Chickasaw purchase and lead to New Orleans over a direct route parallel to the course of the Mississippi.

The undersigned will be upon the spot to sell to actual settlers during the balance of the winter and spring months. He prefers to sell upon the spot, when purchasers can see with their own eyes the advantages of the situation, and therefore will be present at a time when the revival of commerce upon the river and the passing of steam boats will make it convenient for all those to visit the place and examine it for themselves who may wish to become interested in it.

He is also authorised to say that the proprietors, or a part of them, will sell at auction, on the ground, on the third Monday in April next, being the first day of the Circuit court, ONE HUNDRED LOTS; one third of the purchase money to be paid in hand, one third in six, and one in twelve months, to raise a fund for improving the place, to which the whole proceeds of the 100 lots will be applied.

HENRY W. CONWAY.

St. Louis, Dec. 4, 1819——Jan72m.

To Emigrants.

HAVING associated myself with a considerable company for the purpose of settling a new place in the state of Illinois, opposite the mouth of White river and Patoka, at the foot of the Grand Rapids of the Wabash, (MOUNT CARMEL) with an intention to remove to it as soon as practicable, I have contracted for the making and burning of 150,000 brick, which I wish put up next season into buildings, and the Bricklayer's and carpenter's work undertaken conjointly, the plaistering and whitewashing included. Lands adjoining the Town, and town lots, at cash prices, and cash, a proportion of each will be given in payment when the work is completed.

Having entered lands for the accommodation of settlers favourable to the views of the settlement, a considerable body adjoining the settlement and town lands, divided into lots of from 10 to 100 and 160 acres each may be had at the Congress prices, with the exception of the interest on the money paid, and a small advance to defray expences, &c

I wish to employ some persons to enclose or clear lands for me, for which I will pay in lands at cash prices. I have a body of open and timbered lands, that I would lease from 5 to 10 years on advantageous terms to emigrants unable to purchase. A convenient farm to let, by an early application to the Agent may be had.

A canal for boats and water works around the Grand Rapids of the Wabash, a company is forming to commence opening next season, that will afford employment for labourers, and no inconsiderable inducement to capatilist to invest their funds in the establishment. Considerable encouragement and aid have already been tendered for that purpose by emigrants from the Eastern States. The river is open for navigation from this place to New-Orleans all the year.

Application may be made to WM. BEAUCHAMP, the Agent for the establishment, residing in Mount Carmel, or to the subscriber, residing at present in New-port. None need apply but moral characters.
